The gold statute of "The American Girl," which is to be exhibited at the Paris Exposition, was successfully cast last week. Miss Maude Adams, the actress, was the model, and Mrs. Bessie Potter Vounah was the eculptor. The statute mounted on its base will be six feet in hight, the figure being of Miss Adams own height. It weighs 712 pounds, and the bullion used is valued at $184,000. Miss Adams' gown is of the simplest sort. It is a summer dress of chiffon. Lace ruffles extend its length, and, gaihered at the waist, they give a kind of blouse effect at the bosom The sleeves are tight from shoulder to wrist and the arms droop to full length on both sides. The hair waves back from the forehead and is parted slightly to the left. The pose is that of taking a step forward denoting "Progress."

CHAPTER VI. The great thoroughfare of that wonderful city, seated on more than her seven hills, and ruling the western world, was thronged from curb to curb. Gay with bunting and streamers, the tall buildings of the rival newspapers and the long facades of hotels and busimess blocks were gaver still with the life and color and enthusiasm that crowded every window. Street traffic was blocked. Cable cars clanged vainly and the police strove valiantly. It was a day given up to but one duty and one purpose, that of giving Godspeed to the soldiery ordered for service in the distant Philippines, and, though they hailed from almost every section of the union, except the Pacific slope, as though they were her own children. with all the hope and faith and pride and patriotism, with all the blessings and comforts with which she had loaded the foremost ships that sailed, yet happily without the tears that flowed when her own gallant regiment was first to lead the way. San Francisco turned out on masse to cheer the men from far beyond the Sierras and the Rockies, and to see them proudly through the Golden Gate. Early in the C'y the guns of a famous light battery had been trundled, decked like some rose-covered chariot at the summer festival of flowers, through the winding lares of eager forms and faces, the cannoneers almost dragged from the racks by the classing bands of men and vom n who seemed power ess to let g. Once within the massive wooden portals, the roard and sentries holding back the in perturate crew , the suld'ers flung a ide their heavy packs, and were mars! a led before an array of a mpting tables and there feasted, comforted and rejeiced in der the ministrathat of that marvelous successor of the sauitary commission of the great civil war of the sixties-the order of the Red Cross. There at those tables in the dust and din of the bustling piers, in the soot and heat of the railway station, in the jam and turmoil at the ferry houses, in the fog and chill of the scaward camps, in the fever-haunted wards of crowded field hospitals, from dawn till dark, from dark till dawn, toiled week after week devoted women in every grade of life, the wife of the millionaire, the daughter of the day laborer, the gentle born, the delicately reared, the social pets and darlings, the humble scan stress, no one too high to stoop to aid the departing soldier, none too poor or low to deny him cheer and sympathy. The war was still young then. Spain had not lowered her riddled standard and sucd for peace. Two great fleets had been swept from the seas, the guns of Santiago were siseveral, and the stronghold of the oricut was solding in the shadow of the flor, but there was still soldler work to be done, and so long as the nation sent its finding in a through her broad and beautiful gates Son Francisco and the Red Cros stood by with eager, Li land to hap upon the warrior son of a som of other states, even as up a their own, every eller and comfort that we lib code perclas . or humen yr jathy cevis. Lingering farewells there certainly were. Many a young soldier and many a lass "paired off" in little nooks and corners ariong the stacks of bales and boxes, but at the table acarest the staging all seemed gay good humor. A merry little woman with straw-colored hair and pert, tip-tilted nose and much vivacity, and complexion, had apparently taken the lead in the warfare of chaff and fun. Evidently she was most as evidently, to a very close observer who stood a few paces away, she was no intimate of the group of women who with good right regarded that table as their especial and personal charge. Her Red Cross badge was very new; her garb and gloves were just as fresh and spotless. She had not been ladling out milk and cream. or buttering sandwiches, or pinning souvenirs on dusty blue blouses ever since carly morning. Other faces there showed through all their smiles and sweetness the traces of long days of unaccustonced work and short nights of troubled sleep. Marvelous were Mrs. Frank Garrison's recuperative powers, thought they who saw her brought home in the Primes' stylish carriage, weak and helpless and shaken after her adventure of the previous day. . She had not been at the l'residio a week and yet she pervaded it. She had never thought of such a thing as the Red Cross until she found it the center of the social firmament after her arrival at San Francisco, and here she was, the last comer, the foremost ("most forward" I think some one described it) in their eircle at one of the most prominent tables, absorbing much of the attention, most of the glory, and none of the fatigue that should have been equally shared by all.

"Adios!" she gayly cried, as the "assembly" rang out, loud and clear, and waving their bands and raising their caps, the officers hastened to join their

"Do you really think of going to the Philippines, Mrs. Garrison?" queried a much older looking, yet younger wom-"Why, we were told the general said that none of his staff would be allowed to take their wives."

"Yet there are others!" laughed Mrs. Garrison, waving a dainty handkerchief toward the troops now breaking into column of twos and slowly climbing the stage. "Who would want to go with that blessed old undertaker? Goodby-bon voyage, Geordie," she cried. blowing a kiss to the lieutenant at the head of the second troop, a youth who blushed and looked confused at the attention thereby centered upon him and who would fain have shaken his fist, rather than waved the one unoccupied hand in perfunctory reply. "When I go I'll choose a ship with a band and broad decks, not any such cramped old canal boat as the Portland."

"Oh! I thought perhaps your huswith a significant glance at the silen faces about her.

"Who? Frank Garrison? Heavens! I haven't known what it was to have a husband-since that poor dear boy went on staff duty," promptly answered the diminutive center of attraction, a merry peal of laughter ringing under the diney archway of the long, long roof. "Why, the Portland has only one stateroom in it big enough for a bandbox, and of course the general has to In three minutes he was back-half a have that, and there isn't a deck where one comple could turn a slow waltz. No indeed! wait for the next flotilla, when our fellows go, bands and all. Then we'll see.'

"But surely, Mrs. Garrison, we are told the war department has positively forbidden officer's wives from going on the transports"-again began her interrogator, a wistful look in her tired eyes. "I know I'd give anything to join Mr. Dutton.

"The war department has to take orders quite as often as it gives them, Mrs. Dutton. The thing is to know how to be of the order giving side. Oh, joy!" she suddenly cried. "Here are the Primes and Amy Lawrence-then the regiments must be coming! And there's Stanley Armstrong!"

Far up the westward street the distant roar of voices mingled with the swing and rhythm and crash of martial music. Dock policemen and soldiers on guard began boring a wide lake through the throng of people on the pier. A huge black transport ship lay moored along the opposite side to that on which the guns and troopers were embarked, and for hours bales, boxes and barrels had been swallowed up and stored in her capacious depths until now, over against the tables of the Red Cross, there lay behind a rope barrier, laut tretched and guarded by a line of sentries, an open space close under the side of the greater steamer and between the two landing stages, placed fure and aft. By this time the north tide of the broad pier was littered with ing, and though busy hands had been spread and everything on the tables began again to look fair and inviting, "Oh, if we could only move everything bodily over to the other side," wailed Madam President, as from her perch the command, and were now making on a stack of Red Cross boxes she surveyed that coveted stretch of clean, unhampered flooring.

I'm army woman enough to know that order referred only to the street erowd that steals." The bag was duly passed up to her. She cast one swift glance over the heads of the crowd to where a handsome carriage was slowly wocking its no stranger to most of the officers. Al- way among the groups of prettilydressed women and ekildren-friends and relatives of nembers of the departing commands, in whose behalf, as though by special dispensation, the order excluding all but soldiers and the Red Cross had been modified. Already the lovely dark-eyed girl on the near side had waved her hand in greeting, responding to Mrs. Garrison's enthusiastic signals, but her companion, equally lovely, though of far different type, seemed preoccupied, perkaps unwilling to see, for ker large, dark, thoughtful eyes were engaged with some object on the opposite side-not even with the distinguished looking soldier who sat facing her and talking quietly at the moment with Mr. Prime. There was a gleam of triumph in Mrs. Garrison's dancing eyes as she took out a flat notebook and peneil and dashed off a few lines in bold and vigorous strokes. Tearing out the page, ske rapidly read it over, folded it and glanced inoperiously about her. A eavalry sergeant, one of the home troop destined to remain at the Presidio, was leaning over the edge of the pier, hanging on to an iron ring and shouting some parting words to concrades on the upper deck, but her shrill soprano cut through the dull roar of deep, masculine voices and the tramp of feet on resounding woodwork.

"Sergeant!" she cried, with quick decision. "Take this over to the officer in command of that goard. Then bring a dozen men and move these two tables commands. "Adios, till we meet in across the pier." The cavalryman glanced at the sauey little woman in the stanning costunce, "took in" the gold erossed sabres, topped by a regimental number in brilliants that pinned her martial collar at the round, white throat, noted the ribbon and pin and badge of the Red Cross, and the symbol of the Eighth corps in red enamel and gold upon the breast of her jacket, and above all the ring of aecustomed authority in her tone, and

And the Red Cross was vanquished. "I deelare," said an energetic official, a moment later, leaning back on her throne of lemon boxes and fanning herself vigorously, "for a whole hour I've been trying to move that officer's heart and convince him the order didn't apply to us. Now how did-she

"The officer must be some old-some personal friend," hazarded the secretary, with a quick feminine comprehensive glance at the little lady now being lifted up to shake hands with the carriage folk, after being loaded with complineents and congratulations by the ladies of the two favored tables. "Not at all," was the prompt reply. "He is a volunteer officer she never set eyes on before to-day. I would like to know what was on that paper." But now the roar of cheering and the blare of martial music had reached the very gateway. The broad portals were thrown open and in blue and brown. crushed and squeezed by the attendant throng, the head of the column of infantry came striding on to the pier. The band, wheeling to one side, stood at the entrance, playing thene in, the of "The Liberty Bell." They were still far down the long pier, the sloping rifles just visible, dancing over the heads of the crowd. No time was to be lost. More tables were to be carried. but-who but that-"that little army woman" could give the order so that it would be obeyed. Not one bit did the president like to do it, but something had to be done to obtain the necessary order, for the soldiers who so willingly and promptly obeyed her beck and call were now edging away for a look at the newcomers, and Mrs. Frank Garrison, perched on the carriage step and chatting most vivaciously with its occupants and no longer concerning berself, apparently, about be "no on from the further with the officer-of-the-guard. "You did, sir," said the unabashed licutenant, pulling a folded paper from his belt, "and the Red Cross got word to the general and what the Red Cross says-goes. Look at that!"

The colonel looked, read, looked dazed, seratched his head and said: "Well, I'm damned!" Then he turned to his adjutant. "You were with me when I saw the general last night and he told men to put this guard on and keep this space elear. Now, what d'von say to that?"

The adjutant glanced over the pen ciled lines. "Well," said he, "if you s'pose any order that discriminates against the Red Cross is going to hold good, once they find it out, you're bound to get left. They're feasting the first company now, sir; skall I have it stopped?" and there was a grin under the young soldier's mustacke. The colonel paused one moment, shook his head and concluded ke, too, would better grin and bear it. Taking the paper in his hand again he heard his name called and saw smiling faces and beckoning hands in an open carriage near him, but the sight of Stanley Armstrong, signaling to him from an other, farther away, had something dominant about it. "With you in a minute," he called to those who first had summoned him. "What is it, Armstrong?"

"I wish to present you to some friends of none-Miss Lawrence-Miss Prime-Mr. Prime-my old associate. Col. Stewart. Pardon me, Mrs. Garrison. I did not see you had returned." She had, and was once more perched upon the step. "Mrs. Garrison-Col. Stewart. What we need to know, Stewart, is this: Will all your men board the ship by this stage, or will

"All by this stage-why?" But the colonel felt a somewhat massive hand crushing down on his arm and forebore to press the question. Armstrong let no pause ensue. He spoke, rapidly for kim, bending forward, too, and speaking low; but even The American Forces Carrisoning as she cleatted and laughed, the little woman on the carriage step saw, even though she did not seem to look, heard. even though she did not seem to

"An awkward thing has happened. The general's tent was robbed of important papers perhaps two days ago, and the guard-house rid of a most important prisoner last night. Canker has put the officer-of-the-guard in arrest. Remember good old Billy Grav who commanded us at Apacke? This is Billy Junior, and I'm awfully sorry.' Here the soft gray eyes glanced quickly at the anxious face of Miss Lawrence, who sat silently feigning interest in the chat between the others. The anxious look in her eyes gave way to sudden alarm at Armstrong's next words: "The prisoner must have had friends. He is among your men, disguised, and those two fellows at the stage are detectives." A low cry came from her lips, for Mrs. Garrison dropped at the instant and lay half under the wheels in a deathlike swoon upon the dock.

The Reason Why.

A gentleman was riding on one of the coaches in the Trossachs of Scotland, when the driver said to him: "I've 'ad a coin gav me to-day 200 years old. Did you ever see a coin 200 years old?" "Oh, yes," was the reply. "I have one

FIFTY-FIVE LIVES SAVED.

Thirty Stranded Colonists and 25 Shipwrecked Seamen Landed ln New York.

New York, March 26 .- Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Olinda from Cuban ports were 30 stranded colonists from LaGloria and 25 shipwrecked seamen. Twenty of the latter are from the Norwegian steamer Framnes, which was swept ashore by currents on Hog Sty reef in the Bahamas on the night of March 21 and became a total loss as already reported. The crew landed on the reef with provisions and the chief officer and four seamen put off in a boat to go to Inagaa for assistance. They were picked up by the steamer Adm. Schley and landed at ashore by currents on Hog Sty reef Fortune island. The shipwrecked men were forwarded to this port by the Norwegian consul. Capt. #### REBELS AGGRESSIVE.

the Town of Namaga Pacan Attacked By the Filipinos.

Manila, March 26.-La Patria and El Liberal, Spanish organs of the extreme Filipino party, have recently been publishing articles inimical to the military government. Gen. Otis has suppressed the former journal for sedition and imprisoned the editor, at the same time issuing a warning to the members of the extreme party that they should observe greater mod tration.

Senor Paterno, at one time president of the so-called Filipino cabinet. having received permission from the authorities to come to Manila, is expected to present kimself this week at San Fernando, province of Union.

The rebels in Gen. Young's district are becoming aggressive. The Ameriean battalion garrisoning the town of Namaga Pacan was attacked on four consecutive nights recently. Reinforcements are now arriving there. Gen. Young purposes to pursue the rebels aggressively before the rainy season sets in.

Imperial spectacles and eyeglasses have perfect lenses, always perfectly centred and made of purest material, set in frames of the highest elasticity and consequently of greatest durability, united with the utmost lightness and elegance. When both frames and lensew are scientifically fitted by Dr C. H. Bowen's system they always give satisfaction for they are perfect. Never buy cheap spectacles, nor of men who do not know how to fit them You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy imperial spectacles of a reliable, skillfr dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheapest in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

YELLOW FEVER PRECAUTION.

The State Board of Health of Flarida Can Maintain an Independent Quarantine

Washington, March 26 .- The marine hospita! officials are confident there need be no serious trouble growing out of the decision of the Florida state hoard of health to maintain an independent system of inspection and quarantine of vessels arriving from Cuba or other ports to resent the introduction of yellow fever. The states have the right to impose such additional precautions as they may deem fit and proper to those prescribed by the nationl government to prevent the introduction of diseases, and this, it is presumed. spirit. It is believed their army has will be the course adopted by the state of Florida if the decision of the board of health is carried out.

The disinfection and inspection of the marine hospital service, it is said. is complete and thorough, and the officials assert there is no basis for the allegation that the yellow fever epidemic of last summer was due to its negligence.

The point is made here that if the Florida board of health declines to receive certificates of inspection and disinfection issued by the marine hospital service and imposes additional restrictions of this character the state itself will be a sufferer by delays of shipments in its commerce and much embarrassment may ce-

LIGHT.

The very first requirement of the primitive man is food, the next, clothing, the next shelter and then he passes from the requirements of the nurely animal hody to those of a little higher plane and demands light and leat and companionship. In the process of evolution the very first evidence of a development beyond the animal stage, in which man was a carnivorous beast of prey, killing and devouring, raw, animals less strong than himself, was the employment of fire for heat, for light, and later for cooking.

It is strange that nature should have so fashioned adult man that he cannot pass as much of the time in sleep as she has given over to darkness, and it is to correct this fault in his structure that for all time man has devoted a large part of his energies towards producing means for artificial illumination which would lengthen the day and shorten the night.

The demand for light is as natural a demand as that for food. An evidence of the fact that this is a natural demand, is the rapidity with which any industry supplying a satisfactory light grows. Perhaps the largest industrial concerns in the world are engaged in the work of dispelling the has ceased to shine.

A marvelous new chemical compound which when brought in conteet with water would Was discovered by 4th, 1892. Nothing was growth and development has been without parallel of America.

The new substance "Carbide" in apparance resembles dark granite and as ordinarily crushed the pieces average about the size of egg coal. Carbide is inert, will not burn, is non inflainmable and can be handled in any quantity with perfect safety. Calcium Carbide is produced by the fusion and rediction in an electric furnace of a mixture of finely ground and infimately mixed lime and coke.

There have been passed and pronounced safe by the Boards of Fire In officer passed. surance over eighty different kinds of generators for producing Acctylene from the union of Calcium Carbide and water, and the sales of Calcium Carbide for a single day have been in excess of 300 tons

When it is considered that less than fom years ago there was not an Acety lene generator on the market and the very name Acetylene itself was im hown outside of technical chemical laboratories, this progress seems truly marvelous and is explainable only by the fact that Acetylene is truly an extraordinarily brilliant, cheap, safe and satisfactory light, that it pos Ersses many advantages not common to ary other artiferat illuminant, and that it reaches and appeals to a class of isolated consumers in villages and on farms away from gas and electric name and supplies-a long and sorely fe t went Acres lene is produced by the simple committee of calcium carbide and water. The former is now procurable readox and at small cost. Any me-Clanic can in tail the generator Any he of the family can manipulate it it causes no odar, sout, or smoke 7! - Mai e from the Acetylene is clear and brittant, the very essence of light Owing to its richness it is consumed in very small lamners. An Acetylene fane the size of a thumb nail gives as much light as an ordinary flame from city gas thin teen times as large.

Proper Renovation Promptly Done The Prairie Lands of Western Canada Prevents Many Annoyances Which Later Might Come.

The coming of spring suggests to not the slightest excuse for the pres- ness is observable. ence of insect pests in the country, where houses are isolated. In the city house to another, and the battle against them must be constant. It is the fashion to furnish sleeping-neat, well ventilated, with sunny windows, where the bedelothes can be aired and disinfected by having the sun shine on them. Heavy draperies impede ventilation. Carpets gather dust, and numberless germs, therefore. The most desirable bedroom floors are of hard wood or painted, varnished wood, with rugs to cover those portions where there is most wear. Excellent bedroom rugs that are very pretty and durable are made of old ingrain carpets picked apart and rewoven into new rugs. The best pattern is a simple hit and miss design. The cost of making these rugs is about one dollar a yard, or the price of a new ingrain carpet, but they are much heavier and more durable than ingrain carpetings. Wall coverings should be of delicate, simple design; some housekeepers object to wall paper, and prefer to have their walls painted or "tinted in distemper," which is treated with colored kalsomine. The kalsomine is more expensive and no more durable. Enameled wood furniture continues to be popular. Old wooden bedroom furniture can be refinished in this way: First rub off the furniture with sandpaper and have it painted over with one or two coats of the color to be enameled; then sandpaper down smooth, paint it again and finish in a coat of enamel. Be careful the last coat of paint is dry before adding another. Wooden bedsteads are quite general ly superseded by metal bedsteads in handsome sleeping-rooms. They are more easily kept dusted, and bedding darkness after the sun is more exposed to the air than in a wooden bedstead.-N. Y. Tribune.

"I am so thankful to be able to say that your SWANSON'S '5 DROPS' is the best medicine I have ever used in my life. I sent for some last November and commenced using it right away and it helped me from the first dose. Oh, I cannot explain to you how I was suffering from neuralgia! It seemed that death was near at hand. I thought no one could be worse. I was so very weak that I hardly expected to live to see my husband come back from his daily labor. But now I am free from pain, my checks are red, and I sleep well the whole night through. Many of my friends are so surprised to see me looking so well that they will send for some of your '5 DROPS.'?"
